Two Lawsuits Filed in Response to Trump Convoy Ambush of Biden-Harris Campaign Bus in Texas

Suits allege the 2020 vehicular assault on the Biden-Harris campaign bus amounts to political violence in violation of the Ku Klux Klan Act

Austin, Texas—Today, Protect Democracy, the Texas Civil Rights Project, and Willkie Farr & Gallagher LLP filed two lawsuits in the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Texas in response to individuals in a convoy of Trump supporters who engaged in a pre-planned vehicular assault against a Biden-Harris campaign bus prior to the 2020 election. A press conference will be held today at 3:00pm ET / 2:00pm CT to provide more details about the lawsuits and commentary from the plaintiffs and attorneys. Register here.

One complaint was filed against individual drivers of the so-called "Trump Train" who conspired to harass and intimidate those aboard the Biden-Harris campaign bus. Another complaint was filed against law enforcement officials who turned a blind eye to the attack — despite pleas for help — and failed to provide the bus a police escort.

According to plaintiff Eric Cervini, who was accompanying the Biden-Harris bus in a separate vehicle, "Everyone on the campaign bus was doing what good citizens of any political party should do — engaging in the electoral process." David Gins, a plaintiff who was on the bus, added, "The intimidation and harassment we experienced is unacceptable, and we want to make sure it doesn't happen in future elections."

"When members of the 'Trump Train' surrounded us on the highway and started harassing and threatening us, we were terrified," said Timothy Holloway, a plaintiff and the driver of the bus. "They were clearly trying to scare us and prevent us from arriving at our destination in peace — and that day, it worked. The campaign had to cancel their events in San Marcos and Austin."

PRIVILEGED & CONFIDENTIAL — ATTORNEY WORK PRODUCT — NOT READY FOR RELEASE

What happened?

- On October 30, 2020, the Biden-Harris campaign bus left San Antonio to drive up I-35 to San Marcos, with Austin as the final destination.
- There were four passengers on the bus: campaign staffer David Gins, former Texas State Senator Wendy Davis, on-duty bus driver Tim Holloway, and off-duty bus driver Mike Forges. Campaign staffer Colin McLaren was driving a rental car alongside the bus, and campaign volunteer Eric Cervini was driving his car ahead of the bus.
- When the bus left San Antonio, a group of cars and trucks sporting Trump flags and bumper stickers, the so-called “Trump Train,” surrounded the bus for the next two hours while some in the group drove in a dangerous and reckless way. One Trump Train driver, Eliazar Cisneros, intentionally slammed his truck into the side of Mr. McLaren’s car. They put the lives of everyone on the bus—and highway—in danger for the sole purpose of intimidating supporters of a political candidate they did not like.

Was this just an isolated incident?

- Not at all. During the 2020 Presidential election, we saw some of the most severe voter intimidation ever to plague Texans in decades. This Texas caravan was one of several caravans of Trump supporters who targeted minority communities across the state, as also seen in Tarrant County and Montgomery County.

What is the Ku Klux Klan Act of 1871?

- After the Civil War, Black men finally won the right to vote, but the intent of that legislative change was not realized in the South. White supremacists in the Ku Klux Klan targeted Black would-be voters with violence and terror to deter them from exercising their newly won right to vote. Congress passed the Klan Act to prevent and punish these violent intimidation tactics.

What does the Klan Act say?

- You can sue “if two or more persons conspire to prevent by force, intimidation, or threat, any citizen who is lawfully entitled to vote, from giving his support or advocacy in a legal manner, toward or in favor of the election of any lawfully qualified person as an elector for President or Vice President, or as a Member of Congress of the United States; or to injure any citizen in person or property on account of such support or advocacy.”
- In other words: it’s illegal to get together with your buddies and make a plan to scare people out of voting or campaigning.

Why now?

- For nearly 100 years, the Klan Act has remained mostly unused. Now, exactly 150 years after its passage, we’re dusting it off and using it to fight the same problems that voters faced in 1871. Your vote is your sacred choice and constitutional right. We’ll fight any attempt to take that choice away and ensure that individuals who utilize violent tactics to undermine our democracy are held accountable. Whoever you vote for, you should get to do so without fear.
